OVERVIEW

Emerging Leaders is a transformative professional leadership programme developed by experienced programme directors from the William J. Clinton Leadership Institute and academics from Queen's Business School.

The Emerging Leaders programme develops leaders who are currently managing and leading others and would like to refine and recharge their leadership approach to maximise influence and impact. Our highly immersive programme will enable you to take your leadership skills to the next level in your personal leadership journey.

Join Emerging Leaders and empower yourself to be an impactful leader. In the programme we focus on exploring and promoting greater self-awareness, building adaptive resilience and navigating and embracing change. We consider the benefits of adopting a coaching approach and learn to motivate individuals for high performance. Through these you will develop your own robust leadership framework with practical skills to drive results.

"The Emerging Leaders programme was a great course for my needs for moving into a Senior role within the business. The modules were tailored to Leadership development, with each one proving more beneficial than the last. I am now confident in my ability to lead a team through a post-pandemic world. Thanks to everyone involved and my classmates for making this such an enjoyable and educational experience that I know will benefit myself, the company and my team."

Walk Away with the Skills To

- Deepen awareness of your behaviour and how it impacts on others.
- Lead managers and teams for high performance.
- Work effectively with others to support cross functional thinking and buy-in.
- Understand how to influence others.

Crucially, this programme provides an opportunity for you to reflect on the impact you have – and can have – as a leader.

WHO IS THIS PROGRAMME FOR

Our Emerging Leaders programme is designed to challenge, develop and empower emerging leaders who lead other managers or senior professional staff. Particular challenges they will be likely to experience at this level of leadership include cross functional working; influencing senior manager buy-in; and identifying and developing managers for higher performance. In a blended format over a series of modules the programme has three component parts:

- 1) Who am I as a leader?
- 2) Leading individuals and high potential teams
- 3) Leading within the organisation.

“As a programme delivered by The William J. Clinton Leadership Institute at Queen’s, I knew this would be an excellent programme - yet it exceeded my expectations in many ways! It helped me develop my leadership and management skills whilst improving my understanding of teams and what motivates them. I gained practical and reflective skills and the contributions from my peers within the group all added an invaluable element to the learning. I feel that I have come away from the programme a better leader which ultimately benefits my employer and colleagues through excellence in leading a large academic department and, furthermore, excellence in curriculum delivery for our learners.”

Lynda Hegarty - Head of Department of Health, Sport and Science – NWRC
